The late 16th century was a period of rapid expansion in geographic knowledge and urban development in Europe. During this time, the Renaissance fostered a renewed interest in exploration, science, and the arts. Cartographers and engravers sought to document and depict the world's cities, landscapes, and peoples with increasing accuracy and artistic flair.

The Collaboration

Between 1572 and 1617, Braun and Hogenberg worked together to produce Civitates Orbis Terrarum ("Cities of the World"), a monumental atlas consisting of 546 city views and maps across six volumes. Their combined efforts resulted in an authoritative visual and descriptive record of urban centers across Europe, the Middle East, Africa, and beyond.
