Political Landscape: Stability and Challenges

1. The Political Climate in February 2014

Bangladesh's political scene in February 2014 was characterized by a tense yet relatively stable environment, following a period of intense political unrest in previous years. The dominant force, the Awami League-led government under Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina, was working to consolidate its position amidst opposition activities and calls for nationwide protests.

The opposition Bangladesh Nationalist Party (BNP), led by Khaleda Zia, continued to boycott the ongoing 10th parliamentary elections scheduled for January 2014, which eventually took place on January 5. The boycott resulted in a low voter turnout, raising questions about the legitimacy and democratic process in Bangladesh at that time. However, by February 2014, the government was focused on maintaining law and order while addressing concerns about political legitimacy.

2. Key Political Events and Developments

- Election-Related Dynamics: The January 2014 elections, marked by a boycott from major opposition parties, led to a parliament with mostly Awami League members elected unopposed. This situation heightened political tensions but also prompted the government to emphasize the need for constitutional stability and democratic continuity.

- Legal and Administrative Actions: The government took steps to strengthen anti-corruption measures, including investigations into political figures and officials. These actions aimed to project an image of transparency, although critics argued they were politically motivated.

- Opposition Strategies: Despite the boycott, BNP and its allies continued protests and strikes (hartals) in an attempt to press for electoral reforms and new caretaker government arrangements. The government maintained a firm stance against violence, emphasizing the importance of peace and stability.
