Philip Kotler's approach to marketing is rooted in its historical evolution. Traditionally, businesses focused on production efficiency—"making what's easy to produce," with the assumption that demand would follow supply. This was the era of product-centric marketing, where the main goal was to produce high-quality goods and hope customers would buy them.

However, Kotler introduced a paradigm shift: moving from a product-centric to a customer-centric approach. He emphasized understanding customer needs and wants, and tailoring offerings accordingly. - Product: What value does the offering deliver? How does it meet customer needs?
- Price: How much are customers willing to pay? What is the perceived value?
- Place: Where and how is the product distributed? Is it accessible to the target market?
- Promotion: How is the message communicated? What channels are used?

Kotler's 4 Ps serve as a foundational tool for marketers to craft comprehensive strategies that align with consumer expectations and competitive dynamics.

Extensions and Modern Adaptations:

In the digital age, the 4 Ps have expanded into 7 Ps, adding People, Process, and Physical Evidence, especially relevant to service marketing. This evolution reflects Kotler's recognition of the changing marketing landscape.

3. Segmentation, Targeting, and Positioning (STP)

Kotler championed the importance of identifying specific customer segments, choosing the most promising target markets, and positioning offerings to resonate uniquely with those segments.

- Segmentation: Dividing the market into distinct groups based on demographics, psychographics, geographic, or behavioral factors.
- Targeting: Selecting which segments to serve.
- Positioning: Crafting a value proposition that differentiates the offering in the minds of consumers.

This strategic process ensures marketing efforts are focused and effective, maximizing resource utilization and customer engagement.
